Art Unit: 1796

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Anselman et al (US 6,648,958).

Anselman et al teach silica particles with a diameter of less than 20 μm coated with titanium dioxide and a further layer of SiO_2 in abstract and claim 20 and at col. 2, lines 57-65. Said coated pigment has a refractive index of 1.45 to 1.65 (abstract). Said diameter of less than 50 μm encompasses the instant particle size inherently, and the recited atomic layer deposition process has little probative in a product claim.

Thus, the instant invention lacks novelty.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Anselman et al (US 6,648,958) and WO 03/008186.

Art Unit: 1796

WO teaches metal oxide particles having a particle size of 0.1 to 10 μm (100 to 10000 nanometers, page 3, line 19) coated (or deposited) with 1 to 20 nm thickness of atomic layer deposited metal oxide (page 3, lines 17-24).

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of invention to utilize nanosized silica and to obtain coated nanosized silica (pigment) taught by WO in Anselman et al since the diameter of less than 20 μm encompasses the instant nano particle size absent showing otherwise.

Claims 9, 10 and 14-18 are allowed.
